REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

TO THE GREENFIELD SCHOOL BOARD:

Out of each dollar of equalized valuation, Greenfield expended six and four tenths mills in the fiscal year which closed in 1923, six and six tenths mills in the succeeding year; six and four tenths mills in 1927, and six and two tenths mills in 1928. The last figure, more exactly stated, is $6.17 for each thousand dollars of equalized valuation. The above figures refer to local costs for elementary education.

Over high school expenditures the local board has no control in any way, acting merely as an estimating body, reporting the expected cost of this statutory obligation to the selectmen.

For the past year, total expenditures for all costs, elementary and high school, placed Greenfield well below the state average. Costs per valuation were exceeded by 133 other school districts. 109 school districts spent less per thousand dollars.

The above total figures include the amount of state aid, which has increased from $184.57 in 1925 to $1017.54 for the present year. The town has, therefore, as may be seen, decreased its local appropriation for local schools in ratio of its valuation, while expending state aid in greater amounts than in any other years since 1919-1920, save two.

This has been accomplished through a change of administrative policy, whereby the money available for elementary schools was expended on specific items.

Increase in the payment of high school tuitions amounted to $870.88 for the past year. Only extreme care in the items dealing with state aid costs prevented a decrease in the money available for actual pupil needs. The firm stand of the school board, and its refusal to cut the costs of elementary schools to provide for high school tuition payment, was financially well repaid as well as educationally profitable. Former misunderstandings, if repeated, would again have reduced state aid to a minimum, with no financial gain whatsoever to the town.

A 179½ day school year was maintained. This is the highest ever recorded except in the fiscal year 1925-1926 when Greenfield moved into the 182 day group, two days more than a standard year. Previous costs for closing had totalled more than all expenditures for administration and supervision, books, supplies and other special activities, combined.

The Board is operating well within its budget. It is saving a considerable sum to the district by annual purchase of supplies, instead of month to month purchases, save for items on which there is no discount for small quantities. Full co-operation with the central supervisory office has made possible a system of supplies and pupil accounting which makes possible a high degree of economy of material and pupil time.

Sixty-three pupils were enrolled during the past year. The percent of attendance was the highest in ten years. There were but 35 cases of tardiness and 5 pupils had perfect attendance. The superintendent of schools made 86 visits to the schools, and 32 other special trips on school business. 88 citizens visited the schools. The school board held ten meetings.
